

VERNON
HENRY HOMES

Where we live must work from the inside out, and from the ground up. This means taking where we are and who we are as starting points... Only then can a home be a perfect fit, as comfortable as a favourite piece of clothing
Terrence Conran, Easy Living

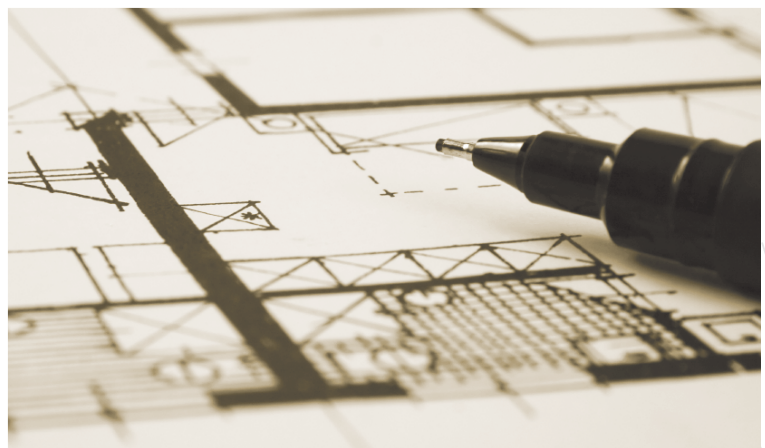

Vernon Henry Homes has a building pedigree spanning three generations of construction professionals which has brought an understanding of clients varying needs and how to achieve results

Vernon Henry Homes gives New Zealanders access to a complete architectural design and build solution. This is possible through detailed client consultation, cost effective design by award winning architects, focused project management, bulk buying power and specific attention to detail using systems refined over years of experience

Vernon Henry homeowners enjoy professional design input from architects that clearly distinguishes their taste and sets their property apart from the crowd, making their new home distinctly individual

Each home is finished with quality fixtures and fittings which complement a design brief reflecting the owner's requests and lifestyle, all within a realistic fixed price, eliminating any unpleasant last minute surprises

Vernon Henry Homes draws on a range of professionals with backgrounds that take in the whole of the building sector applying their qualifications and experience to each individual project

Only experienced carpenters are entrusted to bring Vernon Henry Home plans to fruition, in close consultation with individual project managers who have an intimate knowledge of each property providing meticulous attention on and off site

Communication is a high priority; we carefully listen to each client's brief to ensure this is fully encompassed into the critical design phase of the project. The extra quality comes from a dedicated architectural team whose role is to supply flair and functionality to each home, in tune with its owner's tastes and wishes

At Vernon Henry Homes we ensure that each home we build brings together the elements that blend construction with comfort and functionality in a style particular to its owner, their lifestyle and the surroundings in which they live

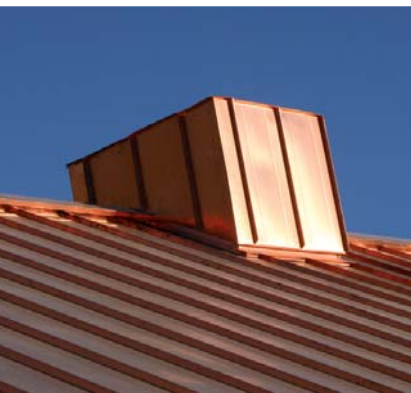

This is why your Vernon Henry Home is distinctly individual
